WHAMISA

Organic, fermented skincare — nature as it is

ENS Korea, maker of the WHAMISA brand: organic-certified skincare, hair and body care built on a 25-day two-step fermentation, across seven plant collections

About the company

WHAMISA is a Korean organic skincare brand owned and made by ENS Korea Co., Ltd. (ENSBEAUTY Group). The company selects organically grown plants and, through a long fermentation, works to bring out their active properties — an approach it sums up as "nature as it is".

At the centre of the brand is a two-step fermentation the company says takes about 25 days, with humidity, temperature and the fermentation itself monitored to the end. WHAMISA states it was the first to isolate the kimchi-derived lactobacillus strain Lactiplantibacillus plantarum ENS9265, and each collection is built around its own fermented complex.

The range is organized into seven plant collections — Flowers, Cactus, Pear Blossom, Seeds, Algae, Herb and Fruits — covering facial care, sun care, hair and scalp care, and body care. Teranova presents the brand for B2B partners; prices and terms are shared directly, not published.

Product range (1/2)

Organic Flowers

The core facial collection, built on the brand's Flower Essential Complex from eight organic flowers: first-step toners and lotions, creams, cleansers, facial oil, eye essence, mist and masks. Several products are waterless, using organic aloe in place of purified water, per the company.

Organic Cactus

A hydration collection on the Cactus Hydration Complex from Nopal cactus: a bouncy moisture serum, a wrinkle-and-brightening serum, and a PDRN moisture toner pad.

Organic Pear Blossom

The Flower Radiance Complex line: an essence toner and a mineral (zinc-oxide) sunscreen and sun powder, described by the company as broad-spectrum with no white cast.

Organic Seeds — hair & scalp

Built on the Seed Vitality Complex from protein-rich seeds — the brand's hair and scalp line. The Green Peas Shampoo Scalp Care contains three KFDA-recognized hair-loss-care ingredients (menthol, salicylic acid, dexpanthenol), per the company; the line also covers oily- and dry-scalp shampoos, a hair treatment, a scalp tonic and body care.

Organic Algae

The Algae Refreshing Complex from organic kelp: a real-kelp sheet mask, body cleanser and mists.

Product range (2/2)

Organic Herb

The Planta Relaxing Complex from four herbs: an outdoor spray the company describes as a cosmetic with essential oils that insects avoid, and an olive-leaf mist.

Organic Fruits

The Fruits Clear Complex, yuja-based: a hydrogel mask, a pore-clear exfoliating pad and a spot treatment.

Technology

Two-step fermentation

The company's signature process: naturally derived ingredients are inoculated with a lactobacillus strain and fermented in two stages, then filtered and sterilized into a fermented filtrate extract. WHAMISA states the cycle takes about 25 days.

Organic sourcing and clean formulation

The brand states it selects organically grown plants, excludes synthetic ingredients from the planning stage, and uses eco-friendly packaging — recyclable containers, paper tape, soy-ink printing and biodegradable materials.

Fermented complexes

Each collection carries its own fermented complex — for example Flower Essential, Cactus Hydration, Seed Vitality and Algae Refreshing — presented by the company as the active heart of the line.
