HUKSAMSOO · TRUE ISLAND · HOPE GIRL

Three brands from one company: black ginseng, honey and make-up

Joycos of Seoul: HUKSAMSOO black-ginseng skincare, the TRUE ISLAND honey and glacier-water lines, and HOPE GIRL colour cosmetics

About the company

Joycos Ltd. is a Korean company in Seoul that runs three brands at once. That is an unusual shape for our platform: a supplier normally arrives with one name, and here skincare and make-up sit under one roof.

HUKSAMSOO is built on black ginseng. TRUE ISLAND holds two lines: Honey Bee on honey, royal jelly and propolis, and Alaska Aqua on glacier water. HOPE GIRL is colour cosmetics: base, eyes and lips.

For a buyer this means a shelf can be assembled from a single source. Good-aging care, hydration, sun care and make-up arrive from one counterparty, under one contract and in one shipment.

By the company's account, ten items carry the European CPNP notification. The brands are sold on international marketplaces and in Korean retail.

Brands and lines (2/2)

TRUE ISLAND · Alaska Aqua

HOPE GIRL — colour cosmetics

Base: a primer 35 g, a powder pact 21 g and a tone-up sun cream 40 g at SPF50+ PA+++. Cheeks and lips: a powder blusher and a lip tint, six shades each. Eyes: a glitter in four shades, an eyeliner and a brow pencil in two shades each, and a 9 g eyelash serum carrying a vegan mark.

What sits behind the formulas

Black ginseng, processed nine times over

The company describes the process as follows: ginseng is steamed and dried nine times, about 1,200 hours at low heat. By its account the content of the saponin Rg3 rises through this, and the company ties that saponin to collagen synthesis.

Spicule delivery

Black Ginseng EX PDRN Shot 120 is stated to contain spicules processed from natural sponge. The company describes them as micro-needles that open micro-channels in the outer layer and help actives travel deeper than they would from ordinary application.

Plant-derived PDRN

The company states that the PDRN in this line is drawn from ginseng DNA rather than being of animal origin. Milk-derived exosomes in liposome form and an eight-peptide complex are stated separately.

Glacier water and triple hyaluronic acid

The Alaska Aqua line is built on Alaska glacier water and three forms of hyaluronic acid of different molecular weight, which the company matches to hydration at different depths.

Three brands in one shipment

Skincare and make-up come from one supplier. For a buyer that is one contract, one shipment and one conversation about terms instead of three.

Export and markets

The company is looking for distributors abroad. It first named Europe and the United States; on 3 September 2026 Joycos confirmed in writing its interest in Latin America and noted that it has no buyers there yet and the market is open to it. Teranova covers Latin and North America and matches the brands with the countries and channels where botanical skincare and affordable make-up sell.
