LOOBEE

Clean beauty, honest to the skin

Korean vegan care for sensitive skin: the Panthenolca Repair line on panthenol, TECA and PDRN, and the Signal Light line — cleansing, sun care and sheet masks

About the company

SEUNGGUN COSMETICS CO., LTD. is a Korean company that makes skincare under its own brand, LOOBEE, and at the same time works as a manufacturer: formulation development, production, export and OEM, ODM and private label services. A buyer can take a finished brand, or arrive with their own.

The company states LOOBEE's position as clean vegan cosmetics: formulations free of animal-derived ingredients and free of animal testing. The brand's materials are gathered around one idea — care should be calm on the skin and honest in its composition.

The range is split into two lines with different jobs. Panthenolca Repair works on the barrier and on dryness: panthenol, TECA, PDRN and ceramide NP. Signal Light covers the daily cycle — cleansing, sun protection and sheet masks, each mask for its own concern.

Today, according to the company, exports go mainly to China and the United States and sales run largely online: Taobao and Pinduoduo in China, TikTok Shop in the US. The company is open to other markets and names Latin America and North America in particular, where it is looking for importers, distributors and retail chains.

Own brand LOOBEE plus development, manufacturing and export

Dermatological testing and a Dermatest® EXCELLENT rating — as declared by the company

Exports to China and the United States; online sales through Taobao, Pinduoduo and TikTok Shop

Latin America and North America named as priority markets for expansion

Product lines

Panthenolca Repair

The line for sensitive skin and a compromised barrier. The formula rests on panthenol, TECA, PDRN and ceramide NP. Five products cover the whole cycle: a pack cleanser left on the skin for one to three minutes and rinsed off; a bubble serum as a booster after washing; a cream mist that also works over makeup; a rich PDRN cream with niacinamide for radiance and wrinkle care; and a sheet mask on a bamboo sheet. According to the company the products passed dermatological testing and testing on sensitive skin.

Signal Light

The daily line, six products. Cleansing in two steps: a vegan cleansing oil with 50% sunflower seed oil and a mildly acidic foam built on ectoin, panthenol and Centella. An essence-type SPF 50+ PA++++ sunscreen on mineral filters, with a tone-up effect and no white cast. And three sheet masks split by concern: RED for hydration and soothing, YELLOW for dullness and radiance, GREEN for firmness on hydrolysed collagen; the last, according to the company, is being prepared for launch.

Approach and manufacturing

Panthenol and TECA

The pairing the Panthenolca Repair line rests on. The company uses panthenol as a barrier-strengthening and soothing component, and TECA as a Centella derivative. Both lines are built on gentle formulations for skin that reacts to strong actives.

PDRN

Present in the pack cleanser, the bubble serum and the cream of the Panthenolca Repair line. The company presents it as part of gentle daily care rather than as a clinical treatment.

Vegan formulation

The company states that no animal-derived ingredients are used and no animal testing is carried out across the range, including the collagen mask, where the collagen is listed as vegan. The Vegan mark appears on its own materials.

Testing

The brand's materials carry marks for dermatological testing, a Dermatest® EXCELLENT rating and testing on sensitive skin. These are the company's statements; copies of the reports are requested at the deal stage.

Manufacturing under another brand

Alongside its own brand the company offers OEM, ODM and private label services. For a buyer that means two routes: take LOOBEE as a finished brand, or develop a line under their own.
